TUESDAY

The first full day in Hungary began for us at our exchange partners' school in Halásztelek, which we were shown around in more detail on a school tour. There we first listened to the presentation of the Belgian exchange partners about their school.

Then it was our turn to present our presentation about the GTO and its social skills programs to the others.

After the presentations, we played a game to get to know the others in the Erasmus program better. For example, we talked in groups about our wishes for the future, our favorite food and other things.

The program then also focused on our topic of the week: sustainability.

A student from a university in Hungary who studies sustainability gave us an introductory insight into the complexities of sustainability and specifically how we can make our own everyday lives more sustainable.

With this introduction, we then boarded a bus to Budapest, where we were given a guided tour of "sustainable Budapest".

There we were introduced to the city's sustainability concepts, such as the "community bikes".

We were also given the chance to shop in a bakery and a second hand charity store and buy souvenirs.

After this tour, the host families were free to give us more time in Budapest or to spend more time at home.

And so the first day in Hungary ended for us with time together with the host families and many impressions of the sustainability concepts of Budapest.
